

Fence Haven Introduces Vinyl Fence Design for Dog Owners

June 01, 2026

KNOXVILLE, TN - June 01, 2026 -

Fence Haven, a family-owned fencing company serving the Knoxville metro area, has built its vinyl fence installation program around a single priority: making sure dogs cannot get out. The company, founded in June 2025 by Logan Tharp, has completed hundreds of residential and commercial fencing projects across East Tennessee and serves a customer base that is roughly 80% dog owners seeking secure containment for their pets.

Vinyl privacy fencing accounts for the majority of the residential installations Fence Haven completes each season. Before recommending any material or layout, the crew walks the property with the homeowner and evaluates the yard from the dog's perspective. That walkthrough checks for grade changes along the fence line where a dog can push a panel up and slip underneath, corners where repeated lateral force over time can gradually loosen a post, and gate configurations that appear secure to a person but leave just enough clearance for a determined dog to push through.

The crew sets posts in high-PSI concrete, a heavy-duty mix designed to resist the lateral movement that builds up over months of a dog leaning or pressing against the fence, and installs boards flush with the ground to close the gap that gives smaller dogs room to dig out quickly. Fence Haven offers vinyl panels in white, tan, and gray, with configurations available for sloped lots, irregular property lines, and yards that require transitions between different fence heights.

Vinyl does not absorb moisture the way wood does, and it holds its color over the years without repainting or resealing. That low-maintenance profile is a recurring factor in customer decisions, alongside the containment performance. The company handles permit applications and utility marking before any post is set. Those steps delay residential fence projects for weeks when homeowners try to manage them on their own. Most installations are completed within two to four days. Fence Haven also offers financing through Hearth, which allows homeowners to compare monthly payment options before committing to a project.

Logan Tharp spent six years with an established Knoxville fencing contractor before founding Fence Haven in June 2025. His father, Jayme Tharp, brings decades of experience in fencing design and sales. Juan Aranda, a Knoxville native and Farragut High School graduate, answers customer calls directly and schedules estimates on weekends for homeowners who cannot meet during the week. The three principals are involved in each project from the initial property assessment through the final installation review. Fence Haven has earned a 5.0-star Google rating from 185 verified homeowner reviews in under a year of operation, and every installation carries a two-year workmanship guarantee that covers material defects and installation failures.

"Most of our vinyl customers come to us because something already went wrong. A dog got out, or a fence from another company did not hold the way they expected it to," said Logan Tharp, owner of Fence Haven. "We walk the yard with the homeowner and look at it the way the dog does. That process takes a bit longer at the start, but it is the only way to build something that actually solves the problem."
